

The City Consortium Solicitor Training Programme

What is the City Consortium?

We are a group of six leading, global law firms:

- Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer
- Linklaters
- Herbert Smith Freehills
- Norton Rose Fulbright
- Hogan Lovells
- Slaughter and May

What is the City Consortium Solicitor Training Programme?

The route to solicitor qualification is changing.

This has given us the unique opportunity to partner with BPP University Law School to create the market-leading City Consortium Solicitor Training Programme. This programme will:

- provide you with the optimum preparation to pass the new SQE assessments
- equip you with the knowledge, technical and interpersonal skills you will need for your career in one of our firms

You will be supported throughout by BPP's expert tutors and their state-of-the-art EdTech, including:

- a personalised adaptive learning platform
- simulated SQE assessment practice with 1,000s of multiple choice questions
- a virtual law firm to enhance your digital, commercial and legal skills

Why train with the City Consortium?

On the City Consortium Solicitor Training Programme you will:

- study an advanced and extensive integrated legal and skills curriculum alongside your peers
- receive exclusive invitations to guest lectures, by leading City Consortium practitioners, on current transactions, disputes and market trends
- enjoy live transaction-based workshops, led by experienced lawyers from City practice
- go beyond the law to develop your knowledge of business strategy, finance and legal technology, and your project and people management skills
- learn about the mindset, self-awareness and resilience required to sustain a long and successful career in the law

Your success is our success.

That's why we are investing in it.
